- c. Antiaircraft gun range at Neprivaz for the practice of antiaircraft units subordinate to the Third Military District.
 - d. Sniper's range located near Varhost. CO is Col. Gassenheimer, aged 56, a veteran of World War I and a partisan during World War II.
 - e. Tank range located southeast of Smilov. This is a modern range, with mobile, electrically-operated targets, and reinforced concrete shelters and observation points.
 - f. Artillery range, southwest of Rudoltovice and Barnov, for practice with all types of artillery. Units are quartered at Rudoltovice-Barnov or in bivouacs.
- 3. Since 1 October 1949 an airfield has been under construction in the Stars Voda area, allegedly for aircraft assigned to assist in military training.
 - 4. A military labor camp, Unit No. 9991, is situated at the training ground at Velka Strelna. Enlisted men and non-commissioned officers who had been purged from military schools following the February 1948 coup were sent to this labor camp as punishment. Even junior officers are alleged to have been sent there for committing political crimes. Members of this camp train without weapons and work in woods and quarries; no one can leave Velka Strelna unless he receives permission from a medical officer.

" [REDACTED] Comment: The name of General Fuchs is not familiar. Most likely General Fuska, former Military Attache to the USSR, is meant. The latter replaced Col. Alois Speta of the Tank Corps in May 1949.

 [REDACTED] Comment: The military training grounds at Mesto Libava are the center for the training of units of the Third Military District. Infantry, artillery and tank units take their final field training at Mesto Libava.

25X1A

[REDACTED] Comment: Mesto Libava is known to be located in the Second Military District, and it seems improbable that units of the Third Military District would be sent to train there.
